

Got it. I'll perform a deep, cross-league analysis of MLB, NBA, NHL, and MLS bets currently available on DraftKings, hunting for the 3 bets with the highest expected percent profit based on a synthesis of statistical edge, matchup context, player availability, and line value.

I'll report back shortly with a ranked list of the top 3 bets and concise justifications grounded in the most actionable insights available.

1. NHL – Edmonton Oilers Moneyline (+106) at Los Angeles Kings – The Oilers' playoff pedigree and firepower make this underdog moneyline a high-value play. Edmonton dropped a wild 6-5 opener (Oilers goalie Stuart Skinner allowed 6 goals on 30 shots while LA's netminder allowed 5 on 25 shots (Best NHL Bets: Stanley Cup Playoffs Picks for Wednesday, April 23)), but the Oilers have dominated the Kings historically, winning the last three playoff series between these teams (Best NHL Bets: Stanley Cup Playoffs Picks for Wednesday, April 23). With superstars Connor McDavid and Leon Draisaitl driving an explosive offense, the defending Western Conference champs are poised to rebound. Backing Edmonton to win outright offers excellent profit potential given their proven ability to respond in this matchup.

2. NBA – Golden State Warriors +3 (-110) at Houston Rockets – Golden State is an underdog against Houston despite controlling Game 1, and the spread points provide a cushion for a likely outright win. Stephen Curry dropped 31 in the opener as the Warriors shot 47.4% from the field (37.5% from deep) (NBA Best Bets Today: Top NBA Playoff Picks for Wednesday 4/23/25), and their championship-tested depth exploited Houston's poor shooting and wasted second-chance opportunities (NBA Best Bets Today: Top NBA Playoff Picks for Wednesday 4/23/25). The Rockets did rally late, but the Warriors' experience and Curry's clutch play helped them withstand the run (NBA Best Bets Today: Top NBA Playoff Picks for Wednesday 4/23/25). With momentum and a matchup edge in scoring efficiency, the Warriors +3 is a strong value – they should cover and have a great chance to win again.

3. MLB – Over 10 Runs in Seattle Mariners at Boston Red Sox (-115) – A slugfest is brewing at Fenway Park given the pitching and lineup factors. Boston won the first game of this series 8–3 (Mariners vs. Red Sox \(Apr 23, 2025\) Pregame - ESPN), and Game 2 features two shaky starters: Red Sox lefty Sean Newcomb carries a bloated 1.90 WHIP (0-2 record), while Seattle rookie Emerson Hancock has been shelled to a 12.71 ERA and 2.29 WHIP in early action (Mariners vs. Red Sox \(Apr 23, 2025\) Pregame - ESPN). The Mariners offense boasts a .322 team OBP (5th in the AL) (Mariners vs. Red Sox \(Apr 23, 2025\) Pregame - ESPN) and Boston is 8–1 when scoring at least five runs (Mariners vs. Red Sox \(Apr 23, 2025\) Pregame - ESPN). With Boston's lineup healthy and the Mariners supplying power (Cal Raleigh with 9 homers already), double-digit runs are well within reach in these hitter-friendly conditions.